NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(UP)— Recent commodity price increases caught many retail merchants "short" and sent them scrambling to replenish depleted inventories, according to reports gathered by the United Press.

This immediate result of growing confidence by the buying public, higher security and commodity prices, and the seasonal later summer demand created by "August sales," probably will start the wheels humming again in many factories.

The merchants had stopped buying, fearing lower commodity prices. They held off hoping to buy for less money. Thus even this small seasonal demand sent them hurting into the wholesalers' and jobbers' markets.

The first two weeks of August witnessed rather sharp expansion in retail business of many stores.
July registered sales from 20 to 25 percent under July last year. August, however, was a better business month than July though not as good as last August.

Among the factors listed by store executives as promoting increased retail activity are:

1.—Potential demand built up by less than normal purchases of necessities in recent months.

2.—Increased purchasing power through rise in security and commodity prices.

3.—Less fear by workers over further wage cuts and increased unemployment.

4.—Prospects of higher retail prices if present rise in raw materials is sustained.

5.—Purchases for actual needs
for fall.

AUTHORITIES SEEK
NORTHFORK FIREBUG

NORTHFORK, Calif., Aug. 22.—
(UP)—A firebug, who, it was believed, set at least six fires in the Sierra National Forest was sought today by forest authorities as they sought to control the blazes.

One fire which burned over 2000 acres of brush and young pines in the tollhouse district, was under control, although 75 men were held in the patrol lines to prevent another outbreak.

Five smaller fires, on Footman ridge in Mariposa county, were fought desperately to prevent their joining in one huge conflagration which, it was feared, would destroy thousands of acres of timber.

More than 100 men were engaged in battling the five fires and additional crews were to join them today.

All of the fires, forest authorities said, were of incendiary origin.

DOWNING HURLS CHALLENGE AT HIS OPPONENT

Offers to Debate Edwards
in Home Town on Campaign Issues

CHALLENGE to debate publicly in Orange the issues of the campaign has been hurled by Clyde Downing, of Santa Ana, candidate for the Republican nomination for the state senate from Orange county, at his opponent Sen. N. E. Edwards, of Orange.

Downing declared he was unwilling to attack the record of Edwards in his opponent's own community unless the senator were present to defend himself, and if the challenge is not accepted he will not speak in Orange during the campaign.

Downing's challenge is a reply to a recent attack made upon him by Edwards in an address delivered here in Birch park. Downing, in a previous address had listed Edwards' vote on several measures including the Sharkey oil bill, which he declared was inimical to the public good.

In a letter to Edwards challenging him to the debate, Downing said that he would, if the challenge is accepted, discuss the Sharkey bill and Edwards' vote on that measure. He also will maintain that the government of Orange county, with which Edwards has been closely connected for many years, has been conducted in a manner to deny the average voter a chance and that the secrecy thrown around public affairs is contrary to the principles of good government.

Record Attacked

He said also he will maintain that the political "ring" has aided certain individuals and groups and that Edwards himself and at least one of his institutions has been a beneficiary of the power he has been able to exert. He said that he also will maintain that Edwards' record as a whole in the Senate has not been in the interest of the average man but of special interests.

The text of the letter to Edwards follows:

"I attended the meeting in Birch park here in the city of Santa Ana, at which you delivered your address. I have carefully noted its content, and have been rather surprised at its character.

"Your personal allusions to myself I cannot help but feel were rather unwarranted. I have never claimed to be a tremendously important citizen in Santa Ana or Orange county; but I never have been belittled in any way in public speech before. I have done the best I could in public affairs, and I have enjoyed the hope that that best deserved the approval and not the adverse criticism of men. I have put considerable time, Senator Edwards, into public affairs, but I never received a salary for any of it until I was elected City Attorney of Santa Ana.

Deserves Credit

"I do not claim that the position of president of the Chamber of Commerce of Santa Ana, which position I filled for three years consecutively, is an important assistant of the Federal Finance company, but I do insist, Senator Edwards, that a man certainly should get credit for having devoted his attention just as strongly

STATE CONTROLLER
HITS FIXED CHARGE

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Aug. 22.—
(UP)—Striking at "fixed charges" in California's state government, State Controller Ray L. Riley today began formulating a legislative program designed to eliminate such charges on the ground that they offer a stumbling block to real economy.

Bills being prepared by Riley's legal staff would entirely wipe out all fixed charges, making possible a saving from $20,000,000 to $25, 000,000 a biennium under present conditions, he said.

Fixed charges are set by the legislature as part of the state constitution. If they were removed, it would have to be ratified by vote of the people.

OPERATION OF SALES TAX IS CLASS SUBJECT

Monkey In Pet Store Amuses Self

Addressing members of the Open Forum class at the First Methodist church yesterday, Loyal K. King discussed the sales tax. The greatest weakness of this revenue raising plan, according to King, is that it is hard to apply fairly.

Unless well administered the tax on all purchases is unfair, he said. If well and carefully administered, due regard for the rights of all people it is a very expensive tax to collect.

In his talk King said:

"The sales tax, by which is meant a tax on all purchases, is unfair unless well administered, and if it is well and carefully administered, with due regard for the rights of all people it is a very expensive tax to collect. The statement of what the tax is is simple enough for any one to understand instantly, but when it comes to applying it, then difficulties of all kinds appear.

The first question is, shall it be applied on all purchases? If so, then the poor man who eats about as much food as the wealthier individual, will pay much more than his share of the new tax. If food and clothing are to be exempt, there remains the family automobile, radio, movies and cosmetics to be taxed, so far as the average family is concerned. If the tax is to raise a worthwhile amount of money then the remaining luxuries must be taxed very heavily, but even so the tax income will be disappointingly small.

"But the greatest weakness of a sales tax is that it is hard to apply fairly. A man like Ford who owns his own iron fields, coal mines, railroads, blast furnaces, foundries, machine shops, and distributing agencies pays only one tax—the tax he pays when he surrenders ownership of the finished automobile.

"An automobile manufactured by a small manufacturer of cars must sell for enough to pay all the taxes that have been charged against it. There are almost as many taxes against it as there are operations involved in changing it from iron ore to the finished product. This is due to the fact that industry is so specialized that every time an operation is performed it is sold to a new owner. The small manufacturer is unfairly treated when he is compared with the large manufacturer.

The remedy that has been suggested to overcome the unfairness of this sort of a tax, when applied to manufacturers, is a system of licensed manufacturers. That is every manufacturer is to be licensed. The tax that he pays shall be deducted from the amount that is assessed against him when he identified, if not one of the three directors of, for some 20 years, has been conducted in a manner to deny the average voter a chance, and the average taxpayer a fair opportunity; that secrecy which is thrown around public affairs is contrary to the principles of good government and to the interest of Orange county; that we have had recent demonstrations of its viciousness.

"Ring" Beneficiary

"I will maintain that the political "ring" has aided certain individuals and groups, and that you yourself and at least one of your institutions, has been a beneficiary of the power which you are able thus to exert. And that this power so exerted is against the interest of the county as a whole.

"I will maintain that your record as a whole in the state senate, has not been in the interest of the average man, but of special interests. I would not charge it as any reflection upon you that you are connected with the big interests, or at least the biggest that there are in Orange county, but I will maintain that the facts concerning the record of politics in Orange county and in the state, prove most clearly that we should not have those who are so closely associated and allied with such big interests, make our laws on the one hand, and manipulate our politics on the other; that when politics is used in the interest of big business it is wrong.

"Senator Edwards, I would not come into your community and maintain these propositions without your presence in the meeting, and your opportunity to answer after my statement and before my final reply. I would be delighted, however, to come and present the facts bearing upon these propositions.

"Walker's arguments include the thesis that the governor's acceptance of Hofstadter committee evidence against him is a denial of "constitutional rights" of an opportunity to be heard. The second action contends that the home rule amendment to the state constitution voids the governor's power of removal. This is the right obtained by Sidney Levine for George Dennelly, secretary for the Bronx chamber of commerce.

Cites Record

"As City Attorney of Santa Ana, I wrested from the county about $18,000, which the county organization, in one way or another, had prevented the city from getting until I became its attorney. As to how they prevented it, you probably are as familiar with as anyone, as you have probably had more to do with county affairs than almost any other man in the county.

"I also was a prime factor in the driving of the slot machines from the city of Santa Ana, and rendered an opinion, which I backed up, that is in harmony with the law, and the fact that the machines are banished from the city is a vindication of both my judgment and my effort.

"I have also, Senator Edwards, been prosecuting illicit liquor selling in the city in a manner that has commanded me to the police department of the city, as well as all of the friends of prohibition and law enforcement.

"Senator, this is the first time that I ever have been compelled to defend my public doings, after being derided with the suggestion that I had no record by the statement of any man that he didn't know that I had a record.

Enlisted in Service

"It hasn't been big—I am not the president of a bank, and I wasn't the president of a bank during the World war; but I did enlist as a private in the ranks in the World war. I was not drafted—I enlisted.

"I think, Senator, that is an honorable record, is it not? I served during the war. I attended the various camps. I became an officer, and was honorably discharged. Is there any better record that I could possibly make than that, Senator, so far as a war record is concerned?

"Senator, you know that when I was referring to the record, it was not to the record of your life, but to the record you made as our representative in the State Senate, but you chose in a rather cruel, would you not say, boorish manner to attempt to apply it to my humble life, because I have not filled as financially important position as you have.

"You would suggest that these things were no record. Senator Edwards, do you think it is right to judge all records by the standards upon which you place on what a record is. There are thousands of people in the county—I believe scores of thousands—who believe that this kind of a record is just as genuinely useful and valuable as is your record of some other kind.

Not Bosses' Tool

"But, Senator, the particular reason I am writing you this letter is because you suggest that the very thoughts I have and the language which I use comes from another. Is it possible, Senator, that you are complaining in this respect because I have refused to take your orders and the orders of other people in political control in Orange county? Would you have complained if I were a candidate of the political group that has gone far toward governing this county in the past years? No, but because I am independent, you try to smear me. Fortunately, there is a method by which this particular slur can be tested out.

"I propose, Senator, that you and I shall discuss the issues of the day, not here in Santa Ana, but in your own city of Orange, where you certainly will have the advantage of me, because you will be among your close neighbors and friends.

Finally, after months afloat during which he saw steamers which failed to sight him, drifted far over the Pacific and back and was near the end of his food supply, he was taken aboard by the steam tug Commissioner off Point Bouchon. The tug towed his boat, the Novi, to Point San Luis.

Los Angeles, Aug. 22.—(UP)—After 115 days adrift in a disabled 30-foot fishing boat, Capt. P. A. Riggs, 41, of Dutch Harbor, Alaska, was recovering his health today and preparing to resume his voyage.

Riggs left Alaska April 28 to make a "short trip down the coast," but his auxiliary engine failed, squalls disabled the mast and rudder. He began a never-ending fight to reach land after rigging a jury mast and temporary rudder.

The trial, which entered its third week today, continued to draw capacity crowds.

STATE NEAR CLOSE IN EGAN'S TRIAL

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22.—(UP)—Concluding phases of the state's case against Frank J. Egan, deposed public defender of San Francisco, on trial for the alleged murder of his friend and benefactress, Mrs. Jessie Scott Hughes, 67-year-old widow, were presented in the superior court today.

Prosecutor L. M. Golden indicated he had 10 more witnesses to put on the stand before concluding his case against the prominent attorney. The state's case rests mainly on the testimony of Vern Doran, ex-convict, who turned state's evidence. Doran described from the witness stand how he and Albert Tinnin, third defendant in the case, slugged and ran over the widow with an automobile as assertedly at the urging of Egan.

The trial, which entered its third week today, continued to draw capacity crowds.

Loses Bank Roll While Buying Suit

While Howard Collins, Santa Ana man, was trying on a new suit of clothes at the Hill and Carden store on West Fourth street here Saturday, the pockets of his old suit was picked and he was robbed of $40 in cash, according to a report filed with the police.

A Mexican woman, who was in the store at the time with two young Mexicans, is suspected by police, but she has not been found, the woman having left the store before the theft was learned.

The opening scene in today's battle was held here in county court house where John J. Curtin, Walker's attorney and Assistant Attorney-General Henry Epstein clashed over the governor's powers with Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Staley presiding.

Walker's arguments include the thesis that the governor's acceptance of Hofstadter committee evidence against him is a denial of "constitutional rights" of an opportunity to be heard. The second action contends that the home rule amendment to the state constitution voids the governor's power of removal. ART CARNAHAN, Bloomington, Ill., who finished first in the Los Angeles-Yuma lap yesterday and completed 270 points, failed to show among the first 25 today, and thus added nothing to his total.

Carnahan, however, still was in second place for the entire run thus far flown.

Cessna's first place today, and a two-day total of 222.7 points, gained him third position in the point standing. Mrs. O'Donnell's earned points today placed her fourth.

Death Notices

A WORD OF COMFORT

It is a strange phenomenon that water which flows over granite is softened. Likewise your heart will become tender because of your past experiences along your path. Because your bravery endures, you will be able to do for others what could not be done by those who have tried an easy road.

Every man wants his life to count in the world. Thank God for the grief which develops your latent strength and makes you a man of power. You dear ones share in your every triumph.

THOMPSON—In Santa Ana, Aug. 1932. Maude Thompson, aged 61 years, wife of C. D. Thompson, of Orlando, Calif.; mother of James Le Roy Ortega, of Orlando, Calif., and sister of Virginia Stager and Wallace Stager, of Los Angeles. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 3 p. m. at the Savana cemetery in El Monte. Smith and Tuthill in charge.

SCOTT—At his home, 4311-2 South Birch street, August 21, 1932. John W. Scott, age 68 years. He is survived by his wife, Edith J. Scott; two sisters, Mrs. Jessie Stevens and Mrs. Mabel Barker, both of Missouri; one brother, Strother Scott, of Pomona, Calif. Announcement of funeral later by Harrell and Brown, 116 West Seventeenth street.

NELSON—Aug. 22, 1932, at his home, 410 Richland avenue, Edward L. Nelson, age 64 years. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mercy May Nelson; one son, Harold Nelson, of Irene W. Kingsbury of Los Angeles; two grand-daughters, Natalie Ann and Marilyn Gene Nelson; one sister, Mrs. A. G. Anderson of Blakesburg, Iowa, and one sister-in-law, Mrs. D. R. Turney of Whittier. Music for her numbers were provided by her sister, Miss Gerlene Goble, teacher of popular piano,

GAS STATION AND MOTORISTS ARE VICTIMS

Arrest Truck Driver for $43 Phone Call

Charles Chatlain Jr., 22, truck driver, of 116 East Santa Clara avenue, is in the county jail, charged with burglary, following his arrest Saturday night as the man who several days ago, ran up a bill of $43 in a long distance telephone talk over the telephone of Mrs. C. E. Dunston of 206 North Ross street.

The man is alleged to have walked into the Dunston place, took the receiver off the hook, called a Portland, Ore., number and talked to his wife. Then he walked out. The bill was $43.

Police have been on the lookout for him since that time. He has been identified, police said.

They were returning to Santa Ana from Long Beach when a roadster, yellow in color, ran up behind them from the rear, with out lights.

Car Stopped

"Pull over there," one of the bandits ordered. The driver of the car, Weakley, thinking he was being arrested, by a police officer, immediately pulled over. He said: "What have we done now?"

The younger bandit answered: "This is a pickup."

The four were then ordered to get out of the car and with the aid of a flashlight, one of the bandits searched their pockets while the other stood by covering the youths with a pistol.

Sugden lost $20 in cash, he reported. The other boys escaped, although the bandits overlooked $7 in the pockets of Weakley, he said.

He had it concealed in his watch-pocket and this was the only pocket the bandit did not search.

Loot Cash Register

The same bandits at 1:30 a. m. entered the Motor Service Station at Sunset Beach, ordered the proprietor to hold up his hands and while one covered him with a pistol, the other ransacked the cash register, escaping with $57 in cash, it was reported.

Two different reports, one made by the Seal Beach police who answered the Sunset Beach call, and the other made by Sugden and Weakley, described the bandits in detail. Both descriptions were the same.

The numbers on the bandits' car had been removed. The car was yellow, with yellow wheels and was a model A Ford roadster. All five of the victims described one of the bandits as having pits in his face, claiming the younger of the two men looked like a Mexican. All said they would know the bandits if they saw them again.

ALLEGED THIEF IS BROUGHT TO TRIAL

The official registration closed Saturday evening with more than 350 babies entered to take part in the health and beauty events the last week in August. The total was greater than anticipated and additional cups and prizes are being added to the award list, it was announced today by officials.

'BOY MARVEL' BIDS FOR CHESS LAURELS

PASADENA, Aug. 22.—(UP)—

Samuel Reshezky, former "boy marvel" of Chicago, seriously challenged Dr. A. A. Alekhine of Paris for the world's championship at chess today.

Reshezky had a percentage of 1,000 compared to .900 for Dr.

Alekhine at the close of the fifth round after his defeat of A. J.

Fink of San Francisco and Dr.

Alekhine's draw with Sam Factor, Chicago, after 41 moves.

The two leaders have not yet faced each other over the chess board. The Chicagoan has a perfect score, and the Parisian master

one draw to detract from his four victories. He has never lost a match.

After losing Reshezky the fruit

patrol officers drove to Whittier and hid near a poultry market where they had been informed that Reshezky had sold chickens on other occasions. Shortly after their ar-ival Reshezky drove up to the market with chickens in the rear of his machine and was taken into custody.

EDWARD L. NELSON CALLED BY DEATH

known as "Ted" Nelson, who op-noon.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs.

Mercy May Nelson, one son, Harold E. Nelson of the Broadway

Meat Market, which is located in the Grand Central market; one daughter, Mrs. Irene W. Kingsbury

KNIFE VICTIM RELUCTANT TO AID OFFICERS

Paole Is Granted
Without Sanction
Of Sheriff, Claim

Jess Davis, 41, sentenced by Judge J. G. Mitchell, to serve 125 days in the county jail, or pay a fine of $250 on a reckless driving charge on July 31, and who within a week was paroled by the county parole board, was paroled without the sanction of Logan Jackson, sheriff, that executive stated today.

He declared that he wanted it understood that he was not present at the meeting at which the parole was granted. He said he was at San Quentin at the time.

The parole board consists of the sheriff, the district attorney and the chief of police.

Davis was arrested the day following a wild dash about Santa Ana streets, during which he is alleged to have dumped several gallons of whiskey, while A. L. Stewart, sergeant of police, was chasing him. The next day he was arrested. There was no evidence against him for a liquor charge, so a charge of reckless driving was filed.

The car was found by officers where Botello said he parked it. No trace of "Joe" was found. Botello said he did not want to prosecute the man, making police believe they had not all of the story of the cutting.

Botello was stabbed in the left side just above the heart. His wound though dangerous, is not necessarily serious, hospital attendants said.

Pioneer exploitation and heroism on the Pacific Coast in the '60s was vividly recalled by the unveiling yesterday of a memorial cairn and tablet at Quesnel, B. C., by the British government, according to H. D. Hodges, Santa Ana manager for Western Union. Its purpose to commemorate the events associated with Western Union's historic Russian Extension Expedition, which set out to extend the first transcontinental telegraph line, built in 1861, through British Columbia, Alaska and Siberia to Europe.

A special message, sent by Newcomb Carlton, president of Western Union, to Commissioner J. B. Harkin of the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada was read to the audience at the unveiling, expressing the appreciation of his organization to all who cooperated.

MAN SOUGHT AFTER SHOOTING AT CAFE

Sheriff's officers yesterday arrested Pete Casares, 23, lodging him in the county jail on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder, following a shooting scrape at the Mottner Cafe, at Talbert early Sunday morning.

Joe Selis, also of Talbert, is at his home, suffering from a bullet wound which broke his jaw. He is not badly hurt. Officers have not been able to learn what the fight was about, they said.

A search for Selis continued throughout early yesterday until he was arrested shortly before noon at his home.

Townsend Funeral Rites Tomorrow

Nora C. Townsend, 39, a resident of Anaheim for the past 12 years, died at an Orange hospital yesterday morning.

She is survived by her husband, Guy R. Townsend of Anaheim, three sisters, Mrs. Orville J. Clark, and Mrs. T. L. Kazanau of Anaheim and Mrs. Doris Pope of Hemet; four brothers, William J. Bauer, J. L. Bauer and U. F. Bauer of Anaheim and L. F. Bauer of Pennsylvania, and her mother, Mrs. Mary Bauer of Anaheim.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow from the St. Bonitae Catholic church in Anaheim. The funeral cortège will leave the Backs, Terry and Campbell Funeral home at 1:45 p. m. Interment will be made in Holy Sepulcher cemetery.

Driver Fined On Driving Charge

Floyd Luna, El Modena, paid a fine of $50 on a reckless driving charge when he appeared before Judge A. W. Swayze in Orange this morning. He was arrested in El Modena yesterday by Constable George Bartley.

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

PURSE President Hoover is working on another big idea he may uncork at the business conference here Friday.

He has thought for a long time that business needs a strong guiding hand. It has always been a sore spot with him that the bankers failed to loosen up on credit although he tried everything to move them. Now the railroads are playing dumb when he wants them to take government money for maintenance replacements.

It is his firm conviction that what this country needs is someone to make the business and banking boys take castor oil when it is good for them, whether they like the taste or not.

Creation of a business men's committee at the coming conference might accomplish the desired result. The chairman of that committee would be an economic generalissimo or dictator depending on whether you like it or not. He could lay down the law to his associates.

The president has as much power as Mussolini to squeeze people into line, if he desires to use it. The R. F. C. and the Home Loan Mortgage Bank system hold terrifying possibilities against anyone defying them.

The idea has been talked over in inner circles. Latest word was that the president has fixed his purpose but was yet undecided how to accomplish it.

HOME LOANS

The first loan under this new Home Mortgage set-up will be a long time coming. It will take two months to get the machine working.

The lowdown is that the organization does not intend to make many loans. The administration intends to use it largely to see that normal real estate credit channels function properly. It is a very big stick.

GARNER

The Republicans are privately arming themselves with some material they expect to break soon against Speaker Garner. They have gone through his long congressional record very closely. They have dug up some strong remarks he made against New England domination of the House. Also the fact that he made several speeches which have never appeared in the Congressional Record. He withdrew the manuscripts for corrections and never let them be printed.

MORIBUND

The first development from this prohibition situation probably will be nullification. The Department of Justice saw this possibility in a recent statement. It urged its agents to persevere in enforcement of a law now condemned by both major parties.

That statement only emphasized the improbability that anyone will get up steam now about chasing bootleggers. District attorneys will no longer risk their political scalps to enforce the law in wet communities. Juries will be less eager to convict.

Bootleggers here claim they notice a laxity already. They hold out prospects for a better product soon at reduced prices.

BONUSES

Unnoticed, each day local departments and state conventions of the American Legion are going on record for the cash bonus. It will be obvious soon that the September national convention will have a strong bonus majority.

The thing is beginning to worry the administration. It has powerful agents in the Legion. They have been able to protect administration veterans' policies up to now.

It does not show that there is much they can do at this time, although something will be tried before the convention opens.

TAXES

Ballyhoo for the sales tax is being arranged for early public presentation. The United States Chamber of Commerce is expected to go on record for it shortly. That will start the ball rolling. Other important organizations are being fixed to chime in. The idea is to capitalize all opposition to existing taxes.

There is every reason to expect that by December congress may be persuaded to change its unfavorable attitude.

Tax revision in December is almost a certainty. The existing law is a heavy load for business and salaried individuals to carry on the upgrade. It is yielding far more revenue than had been expected. Stock market activity the past month shows the taxes from that source will be much more than estimated.

NOTES

The president's fishing trip was taken on doctor's orders...He was in a run down condition from long, hard work preparing his acceptance speech...White House callers noted how badly he looked...Nothing was given to the public about it...They always swear the president's health is good whether it is or not...It is said that the first buying in the present stock market trend was done from Amsterdam and Edinburgh...Some of the big fellows in Wall Street concluded that if the Scotch and Dutch were buying the turn must have come...

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

ROOSEVELT

Local Roosevelt supporters are disappointed because their candidate let Hoover's speech go by default. They figure the country will think that the Democrats have no answer to Hoover's statements.

Roosevelt's handling of the Walker hearing has made him a lot of friends here and possibly some votes. His firmness in directing the inquiry in his own way and in establishing himself as master of the situation has done much to dispel the belief that he is weak and vacillating.

Local sharpshooter that Walker shot his case to pieces in making so much of legal technicalities and emotional appeal. There is reason to believe that Tammany is disappointed with the showing he has made and may not permit him a vindication run if he is thrown out.

REPUBLICANS

There are no signs of a depression at Republican headquarters here. The party has spread itself over a sizeable section of the Waldorf Astoria and its greeters are doing a good job of gladhanding. The sumptuous setting is quite impressive. The room arrangement rambles around so many corridors it would be easy to get lost without a guide. But there are plenty of guides.

HOOVER

A southern visitor to New York says that most every radio in the South was tuned in on the Hoover speech. He adds that Hoover made a good impression and will probably corral more votes there than anyone expects, although he does not go so far as to predict any Confederate electoral votes in the Republican column.

MOTORS

The steep drop in automobile sales from June to July was a shock to the industry. The usual seasonal decline is 12 per cent. Last year it was 13 1/2 per cent. This year it was 41 per cent from an already low level.

Chrysler's share of total motor sales has risen from 7 to 17 per cent. General Motors has been slipping almost proportionately. Strong but unconfirmed rumors are active in Wall Street to the effect that a Chrysler-Packard-Nash merger is in prospect with Walter Chrysler as chairman and Macaulay of the Packard company as president.

A large automobile company reports that one of the nuisances of the depression has been a deluge of nut inventions. Hopeful inventors of goofy gadgets are referred to a distant committee by the score every month.

SELLING

General Electric is trying a new selling wrinkle in local territory. An independent organization is conducting an intensive house to house canvass on behalf of G. E. washing machines, ironing machines and sewing machines. Want ads are bringing salesmen in by hundreds. A pep master is in charge.

ORCHESTRA AND GYM STUNTS ON PROGRAM AT Y

Tomorrow night brings the last of the series of popular Tuesday evening entertainments presented during the summer at the Y. M. C. A. when the Orange County Schools orchestra will play.

Every Tuesday night for the past two months there has been some lecture or entertainment offered to the community by the Y, and many people have enjoyed these occasions. Tomorrow there is to be an exceptional attraction for the program, including the concert and various gymnasium class exhibition features.

The County Schools Orchestra, directed by W. G. Arzworth, has kept up its rehearsals throughout the summer, and recently played at the Olympic Village in Los Angeles. It has more than 100 members, from all over the county. The orchestra will give several concert numbers, and there will be solos, quartettes, and other special features by the members.

Physical Director Russick's young athletes will be seen in several entertaining demonstrations of physical prowess. Interest centers in the awarding of "junior life saver" emblems to a class of 13 young men who will receive their awards at the hands of Dr. G. E. Raft, chairman of the physical department committee. This is the largest life saving class Russick has ever trained in Santa Ana.

Exhibitions of fencing, tumbling, wrestling and other physical feats will also be given on the program.

The affair is open to the public, free of charge.

CONTRAST BETWEEN GROUPS IS DRAWN

B. D. Rea, of Pasadena, field representative of the Salvation Army, today issued a statement in which he declared that organizations known as the Christian Army or the Gospel Army, which he said are now active in Orange county, are in no way connected with the organization he represents; uniforms are similar, he pointed out.

Rea said that sometimes these organizations have been mistaken for the Salvation Army and been given donations by persons who thought they were contributing to the work of that organization.

While warning the people of Orange county that the two organizations are in no way connected with the Salvation Army, Rea advised that anyone soliciting funds for the Salvation Army should be asked to present their credentials.

HOOKS and SLIDES

by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

They drop out of the picture gradually and they're not missed until the boys get together and someone asks, "Whatever became of old Johnny and Jimmy?" I haven't seen 'em around for quite a while."

The boys agree. Johnny and Jimmy haven't been around for some time. Perhaps someone in the crowd remembers having seen Jimmy or Johnny at a fight in Peoria or St. Louis, a few years back.

Thus, Jimmy DeForest, the old trainer. He created a masterpiece of show at Toledo. He built one champion to destroy another. He was known at one time as the greatest architect of fighting flesh in the world.

He is remembered mostly as having trained the panther Dempsey that cut down Willard, but he has drilled and seconded hundreds of others in his long career at the edge of the ring.

THE BODY WEAKENS

Jimmy DeForest in his day took many a fragment of derelict cauliflower and built it into a battle machine. Now, he is himself fighting the illness that comes at the end of the trail-struggling bravely for his life in a hospital in Long Branch, N. J.

The city, home of the Ocean A. A., a fight club, naturally is the summer rendezvous of a number of pugs from the metropolitan area. A few of the boys drop in at Hazard hospital nearly every day to see Jimmy and they hold Saturday night dances for his benefit.

Every day or so Joe Humphries, the announcer, whose home is nearby, visits the little fellow. Jimmy still has a few fighters on his string and the local promoter, Jerry Casale, has been making room for them on his cards. It was when Jimmy insisted on seconding one of the local fighters, Bobby McNeil, that he collapsed.

HOW DO THEY GO?

DeForest's quiet fadeout recalls scores of other sports figures who flashed brilliantly or who burned brightly for years finally to fade noiselessly into the shadows. A year or so ago somebody reported Jack Dillon, the Indianapolis Man Mauler, running a roadside stand near Hialeah race track at Miami, Fla. They found Jim Thorpe digging ditches in the far west, and later he turned up as a necktie salesman in Los Angeles.

A photographer happened across Cy Young on a farm not far from Cleveland.

Fireman Jim Flynn was rediscovered driving a taxicab in Pueblo, Colo., and Hans Wagner selling shotguns in a sports goods house in Pittsburgh.

THESE AND THOSE

Periodically Jack Johnson bobs up waving a baton for a hot-cha orchestra in a roadhouse here or there, now on the west coast, again near Detroit or Chicago. Pete Herman, blind, runs a cafe in New Orleans.

A New York baseball writer discovered recently that a gaunt man whose duty it was to close the gates after the movie captains and kings had departed was none other than Amos Rusie, bright slab star of the old days.

Joe Walcott, polishing the brass knobs on the doors at Madison Square Garden; Dutch Reutter, tending bar on the Barbary Coast—these and other stars of yesterday come to strange surroundings after their years out in front of the thunderous crowds.

WHAT THEY LOST

Are they worth sympathy? When they were up there, why didn't they keep it? Why didn't they salt some away? Still they have had something they couldn't put in a bank, something as intangible as the road of crowds beating upon their ears and moments of grandeur in fierce competition. These things they can salt away in memory.

III Maybe, But Not 'Nuts' Claims Walcott

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—(UP)—Joe Walcott, "The Barbados Demon," who wore the welterweight crown 30 years ago, is a sick old man today, but he wants the world to know that he's not "nuts."

The years have battered Joe's blue steel body into a bundle of skin and bones, and at 60, the chap who fought 'em all from heavyweights down, is broke and in the psychopathic ward at Bellevue hospital. He collapsed Sunday at the home of his brother, an iceman.

Physicians reported Walcott suffering from hardening of the arteries and senile psychosis. Joe doesn't mind being in the hospital, but he's fighting mad about being placed in the psychopathic ward.

"I don't belong here," he complained. "I faint on the steps at my home, and now they've shoved me in with the nuts. I'm sick and weak and maybe old, but my mind's as clear as a bell. I'm not nuts, honest."

Motorbike Racing Draws 3500 Fans To Bowl

MINY WALN IS PREMIERE ACE: PLAN NEW CARD

Off to a flying start as a result of Saturday night's speed spectacle which sent some 3500 fans into fits of spasmodic cheering, the motorbike racing season continues next Saturday night at the Santa Ana Municipal Bowl with an even more pretentious program scheduled. Miny Waln, "mighty mite" of the two-wheel fraternity, who manipulated his English Douglas machine to the lion's share of the honors, today notified officials of the Motor Sports association that he will return to defend his honors.

There are a half dozen other stars who will face the flag in their Santa Ana debut this week—riders well known to San Diego and Los Angeles crowds.

SETS TRACK RECORD

Wahn turned in a man-sized evening's work Saturday, establishing a track record of 17.4 seconds and steering his roaring machine to victory in the sweepstakes as well as two other wins.

Wahn's victory in the main event was a thriller. He ran neck and neck with the spectacular young Cordy Milne of Hollywood until the last lap. With and "bearing down" in a desperate effort to reach the finish flag, Wahn came like a thunderbolt to fly past him on the final turn and clinch victory.

There were spills and thrills as developed in advance. One of the wildest of the hair-raisers came when Sid Chambers, Cordy Milne, and two other pilots were thundering around the far end of the track in a mad scramble for first place. Milne claims Chambers, a Glendale rider, cut in front of him and Cordy protested the race afterwards to no avail. However, suddenly Milne's machine bucked like a bronco and Cordy was caught underneath as the mount rolled over. Luckily he escaped with minor bruises and was able to participate in other races of the evening.

Forty Riders in Pits

Milne grabbed one first place and four seconds, while "Big Bo" Lissman of Long Beach, who had several hundred roosters present, throttled his Crocker Special to victory in three races. He also grabbed a second.

More than 40 riders were in the pits at starting time, and while Jack Henderson, one of the officials, claims that Orange county fans "haven't seen anything yet," and promises twice as many thrills next Saturday night, the fans seemed well satisfied with short track racing.

The Bowl appeared an ideal setting for the races. Every seat in the stands is a choice observer's station. The track appeared a bit slippery for the pilots, but Miny Wahn says that he expects it to be the fastest of its type in the Southwest by next Saturday night.

Ralph De Palma, gray-haired veteran of the "roaring road" who just broke the world's 500-mile record at Murco Dry lake last Tuesday with an average of 112 miles an hour, was honorary starter, appearing in the stead of his friend, Ernie Triplett. Also among those present was Arvel Brummett, holder of the one-lap record at Ascot racing.

The "Eagle of the Aces" is a great motorbike racing fan. It was estimated that fully 700 of the spectators were visitors to Santa Ana.

The summary:

1000 ORANGE GROWERS MEET AT ORANGE TO DISCUSS NEW SALES PLAN FOR INDUSTRY

Plans to increase the membership of the California Fruit Growers Exchange to such an extent that it would gain the control of regulated shipments in case the attempted prorata plan could not be put into effect, were discussed at a meeting of more than 1000 orange growers at the Orange Union high school Friday night.

Talks on the marketing situation for Valencia oranges also were given. The problem was discussed from various angles. The bankers' viewpoint was discussed by A. J. Cruickshank who discussed credit, and land values were discussed by LeRoy Lyon, a member of the committee who had aided in formulating a prorata agreement for shippers by Holmes Bishop from the viewpoint of the Farm Bureau, by Paul Armstrong, manager of the California Fruit Growers Exchange, for the past 40 years and had watched the development of the citrus industry from its infancy before co-operative organizations were established. He said that he believed that orange growers were confronted with the same situation as the bean growers had been some years ago when they faced a demoralized market with a surplus of $50,000 sacks of beans.

A pool was formed with a controlling board and no beans were shipped unless it was felt they could be sold in a reasonably short time, he said. In four months time, the speaker declared, the beans had been disposed of as the direct result of controlled and orderly shipments and he said that he believed that the orange problem could be solved in the same way.

"Land values," Cruickshank said, "are dependent on the sale of the crop. If orange prices do not hold up, land values will not hold up. It is to be hoped that the situation can be remedied so banks can extend credits. It is only reasonable that unless the banker believes he will get his money back, no credit can be extended."

LeRoy Lyon traced the origin and development of the prorata plan explaining that more fruit can be moved into market at a high and certain price than can be moved at an uncertain low price. "It must be remembered," he said, "that the consumer always pays for a glutted market."

In explaining how the prorating of shipments had been made by the committee of representatives of the California Fruit Growers Exchange, the M.O.D. and Independent concerns Lyon said that 92 per cent of growers of the state had joined in the prorating agreement which went into effect June 15, and that on July 19, the M.O.D. had withdrawn. "It had been agreed," he said, "that all packed fruit was to be prorated and exports had not been excepted." "It was found, he said, "that the agreement would need to be amended as the matter of exports had been overlooked and the M.O.D. had made a move to place the matter before a committee so the exports could be excluded from the agreement. The organization did not stay long enough to have the export aspect ratified."

"The committee had worked harmoniously during its existence, and the price of oranges had advanced 40 cents a box during the time the agreement was in force," said Lyon.

"With a surplus of oranges and the buying power of the public about 20 per cent below that of last year, the situation must be considered," said Lyon. It is possible that the United States might consume all the Valencia oranges but not at prices which would be profitable to the grower, as it costs from $200 to $275 an acre to grow oranges and about $100 an acre with a reasonable interest on the investment," he declared.

"A co-operative market makes a sellers' market and sellers have of commerce to the prorating plan, Shaffer said that the orange industry must proceed on the other organization being considered was not a mutual concern and if the growers believed it was they were being fooled.

A woman in the audience brought figures she said she had obtained from the M.O.D. and which showed, she declared why the M.O.D. heads were opposed to the prorata plan. She declared that after 5500 cars of oranges were shipped a bonus of 50 cents a car was paid heads of the association.

Holmes Bishop declared the Farm Bureau had endorsed cooperative marketing as a means of solving the orange marketing problem and he said that the Farm Bureau would lend its aid to those present was Armstrong's explanation of the auction system of selling which he declared set the price of oranges for other concerns in the east.

He traced the history of the control of the lemon market and showed how similar favorable conditions might result from the controlled shipments of oranges. A light crop of navel for 1932 was predicted. He also explained that the exchange growers had shipped a smaller percentage of their crop than had the M.O.D. at the time the prorata agreement went into effect.

Dr. Walter Wellman, of the extension service of the University of California will be the speaker at a meeting of growers next Friday evening at the same place and he will present a report based on a study of the orange market of the past 30 days.

WOMAN FILES SUIT FOR DEATH OF SON

Seeking $50,000 general damages and $784.70 medical expenses for the death of her son, Mrs. Beulah Wagner has filed suit in superior court against Ken Taishiro, William Helmers, Tashi Tsukumo, and the United Farmers Association.

RELATIONSHIP OF CHURCH IS
SERMON TOPICWET ARGUMENT FALLACIES
POINTED OUT BY MINISTER OF BREA CHURCH IN SERMON

"Prohibition or What," was the topic of the sermon Sunday in the Brea Christian church, by the Rev. J. Wesley Runyan, pastor, who said in part:

"I do not usually bring politics into the pulpit, nor am I bringing it into the pulpit now, but we wrote prohibition into the Constitution, and said, 'let the Eighteenth Amendment do it, and we church people said 'let the law do it,' but the law will not do it, and it is time to raise the question, 'What and for what purpose is law?' 'How can law be enforced?'

"The fall election again brings our high school boys are drinking, us face to face with this vital question. Pronouncement of the two parties is decidedly unsatisfactory, but the president is not all-powerful in framing national policies. He will have his influence of course. The whole country can be wet or dry without direction of the president.

"Christ is the head of the body, the church, as the husband is the head of the wife. Here we learn a relationship that the members of the church to Him are animated by him; under His direction, and are the special objects of his care; and also that they are united to each other in love, after the manner of the members of the human body, governed by the head.

"A thing in religion might be right and not practiced, and again a thing may be wrong and followed. Something may have the popular approval and be wrong. The husband has one wife, and Christ has one church. Christ is not the head of many churches no more than the husband is the head of many wives. Such has always been right, because it is taught in the Bible. Nowhere is Christ said to be the head of different institutions, as churches or kingdoms or house. Such is always singular in the Bible statements.

"We are related to Christ as members of a kingdom of which He is the king. Here again we conclude that the laws of the king are the only divine laws, and no man has the right to make laws to govern the church nor require any not in the New Covenant. The church by divine authority has never been a law maker. If we will do all that we learn in the book in the way taught in the book when the way is given, we will have enough to do. The manner is not always given, but when it is given it is then a part of the law or will of God. Then we can not change it.

"In a certain case the laws of our land might say for certain crimes that the person should hang by the neck till dead. That would not allow the sheriff to burn, or kill in any other way. He could not hang him by the feet, for the manner of the hanging was given. In the relationship of the church we cannot add to, nor change where God has spoken. In the praise part of the church we are told to sing. This does not permit of our changing nor adding to it. The ones who do so are evidently wrong. If the Apostles should have wished us to use instrumental music in the public worship, they would have said so. Christ is our head and director in all religious acts and worship.

"Another statement is that all of the wets are that beer will bring back prosperity, that is, sell $10 worth of beer for one dollar of revenue. Who drinks this beer? The poor man and his children go without sufficient amount of milk. As liquor business prospers it all comes from the pockets of the beer drinker. Another of the wet statements is 'prohibition demoralizes our youth.'

"Two hundred and twenty thousand of our teachers in the National Education association are in favor of the Eighteenth amendment and for the laws enacted, and pledges support to a more active educational campaign in behalf of habits of living for which it stands.

"Another statement is that all of

BELIEF CITED AS NEED FOR ETERNAL LIFE
WORLD STRIFEBIBLE CLASS MEMBERS
URGED TO VOTE; TALK
GIVEN ON HEBREW LAW

"Did Christ Bring Discord and Strife to Earth?" was the subject discussed by the Rev. H. W. Meyer, pastor of Saint Peter Lutheran church at the service last night. Following is his sermon, in part:

"Men may no peace, peace, but there is no peace." Those words were spoken when our country faced a grave crisis in its history; they were prophetic truth then, but naked facts now. The world longs for peace, statesmen meet around peace tables, but there is no peace forthcoming. While national representatives meet to pave the road to peace, the children of nations are playing leapfrog at the very brink of destruction in the mad race to outdo one another in armaments.

"National greed and selfishness, nothing more than organized individual greed and selfishness, is at the bottom of it all. Armed power may give a nation peace, but it will not give it righteousness. It may be platitudeous to say that 'might does not make right,' but it is a world-wide and age-long fact that must be reckoned in in balancing national and social relationships. All of this basic greed and selfishness the Bible classifies under the term of sin—and the wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life.

"We see Him as a young man, walking by the Sea of Galilee, later offering Himself for baptism by John, at the River Jordan. It was there that John the Baptist shouted, 'Behold the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world.' It is since that time that Jesus has become the Saviour of the world, and in this old sin-cursed world there is no other name under heaven among men whereby we may be saved.'

"Christ's earth life was a series of disappointments to Him; men flocked to hear him, and then slew Him on the cross; He gathered His disciples around Him, and one of them betrayed Him to that death.

"The rest fled, and said it is all over—the Christ is dead. But He was resurrected to activity, and today lives as never before, and in the hearts of men. All who accept Him have eternal life.

"In the beginning God; in the end it will be God and eternity, and eternity of joy with Christ, or a Godless eternity of woe in hell," he concluded, offering the promise that Jesus made, "Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest."

"I want to call your attention to the fact that this is a dry state, but one half of it will not elect a dry candidate. The power should not be divided. Keep in mind the Kingdom of God first and that prohibition must stay in the Constitution, and it will have to be kept there by church people. Moral issues must come into the pulpit. We will fight to keep this America of ours sober."

"The rest fled, and said it is all over—the Christ is dead. But He was resurrected to activity, and today lives as never before, and in the hearts of men. All who accept Him have eternal life.

NEED OF FAITH
BY MANKIND IS SUNDAY TOPIC

Declaring that the greatest of all needs in the life of mankind is a vital, positive faith, the Rev. Kelly O'Neill, pastor of the First Christian church of Huntington Park, who accepted the pulpit of the First Christian church here yesterday in an exchange preached on the topic, "The Power of a Positive Faith."

"Many things pass for faith that are not faith," the guest pastor said. "To me faith is a vital and active realization of the fact that the life of man to live is the life of God and that he must bring all his powers of personality into harmony with that. It is vital cooperation with eternal reality."

"Having faith means learning the will of God and bringing our lives into cooperation with that. We have come too much to look on church as just a place to participate in religious activity. We need to regard it as a movement of God. Man should cooperate to bring about the will of God.

"Faith involves the facts" that God is able and has power—that God reveals—that God cares and is not unmindful of our disasters—and that God uses men.

"We need to get the conviction in our hearts that we belong to God. We must make faith the vital dynamic force in life."

Prior to the sermon, Mitchell Haskell, chairman of the official board, called attention to the fact that a member of the church, W. B. Martin, was a candidate for supervisor, and urged that the church support him. "The church should support those who stand for the right things and when we have a chance we should put Christian men in public office," he declared.

An enjoyable evening in the home of Dr. James and Dr. Estelle Workman, 1905 Valencia street, was spent last Thursday by members of the Chiropractic auxiliary. Dr. Graton and Dr. Naomi McKenzie, recently of the Palmer School of Chiropractic in Davenport, Iowa, were guests of honor.

Dr. Graton McKenzie gave a talk on the scope of work at the Palmer School and on the function of the student Chiropractic auxiliary in the institution. Dr. James Workman showed a film of Dr. B. J. Palmer, head of the Palmer school, illustrating correct chiropractic methods. Other films were projected during the evening.

The program following included a piano solo by Ted Garland and the selections, "Invictus" and "Largo", from the New World Symphony by Dvorak, sung by Kenneth Workman. In offering tap dances and acrobatics, Little Lola Harmon was accompanied on the accordion and guitar by Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Babcock.

The remainder of the evening was spent in the grounds of the Workman home, where croquet and miniature golf were enjoyed by many of the guests. Refreshments were served at the close of the affair.

Those present were Dr. James and Dr. Estelle Workman and their sons, Kenneth and Maynard Workman, and Messrs. and Mesdames J. L. Reynolds, Graton McKenzie, Al Mitchell, George Wheeler, Sidney Babcock, M. J. P. Hell, E. F. Marks, O. A. Harmon, Mesdames Mabel Read, P. C. Homer, Anna B. Brown, F. M. Holiday, Messrs. Hostesses at the affair were Mrs. William A. Knuth, wearing black and white chiffon, and Mrs. E. B. Workman, in deep wine chiffon, both with corsages of zinnias. They were assisted by Mrs. Eula Weaver, who wore green crepe with a gardenia corsage.

The bride and bridegroom left by automobile for a short honeymoon trip. For traveling, the new Mrs. Workman was smartly attired in brown tweed, with accessories in a darker shade of brown. She and Mr. Workman will make their home in Riverside where he is engaged at March field.

Almost a hundred Santa Anans shared a uniquely enjoyable experience Saturday afternoon when they were entertained at tea aboard the Dollar liner, President Coolidge, in Los Angeles harbor where it had arrived that morning from the Orient. The informal party was a courtesy which the Los Angeles office tendered Mrs. Charles F. Hyde Jr., travel agent at Commercial National bank, by entertaining the guests she asked to share her experience.

The First Congregational church of this city as its setting, the marriage ceremony uniting Durward Page of Ventura, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Read of 611 South Flower street, and Miss Ruth Mee of Santa Barbara took place before a gathering of friends and relatives yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with the Rev. Perry F. Schrock, pastor of the church, officiating. Miss Mee was the daughter of Mrs. Gussie Guilford of San Pedro.

A brief program of music was held prior to the service, Miss Benjamin Livesey's pleasing soprano rendering "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawnning" before the organist, Mrs. Lanham K. Wells, sounded the first chords of Lohengrin's "Wedding March," to the strains of which the bride and her attendant made their appearance.

Preceding the bride down the aisle was Miss Georgia Turner, a cousin of the bridegroom. Miss Turner being attired in flowered crepe and wearing a large picture hat. Her costume was set off with a bouquet of mixed sweet peas.

Makes Lovely Bride

The bride, gowned in chiffon of a rich blue, which color was reinterpreted in her picture hat, presented an especially lovely picture.

In striking contrast to her costume were the brilliant red roses which she carried as her bridal bouquet.

Chester Page attended his brother as best man.

Repairing to the Read residence following the ceremony, a few guests shared the family reception arranged in honor of the young couple prior to their departure for Big Bear Valley on a week's honeymoon. A variety of blooms adorned the home for the reception, at which the bride cut a large tiered wedding cake, appropriately decorated. Wedding presents sent the couple were on display in the home and guests had an opportunity during this interval to examine the many lovely gifts.

Friends Escort Pair

Changing from her wedding dress to a sports outfit of white wool, embroidered in color, with which suit she wore a white hat and other accessories of white, the new Mrs. Page took her departure with her husband in an automobile which mischievous friends had decorated with signs and streamers. Accompanied by an escort of machines bearing some of their younger friends, the newly weds left the city for the mountains in a din of tooting horns and shouted good wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Hyde drove over to the harbor early to be at the boat to greet the advancing ranks of sightseers, and were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Dean Colver. Mr. Colver is president of the Bank club whose membership is drawn from both the First National and the Farmers' and Merchants' banks.

In addition to this group there were a few additional guests including Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Hermon, Mr. and Mrs. Theo A. Winbigler, Mrs. Arthur Lyon, Mrs. W. H. Wyckoff, Mrs. Emmett Elliott, Miss Luinde Griffith, Miss Dorothy Forney, Miss Charlotte Moulton, and a few Los Angeles friends, Mr. and Mrs. John Doddridge and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Kuder and Miss Jeanne Kuder.

Mr. and Mrs. Hyde and Mr. and Mrs. Colver remained as dinner guests on the boat, continuing later that evening to San Clemente where they attended the Fifty Fifth club dance.

"GAY CABALLERO" AT WALKER STATE

Offering a fine idea of the modern-day west as compared with the gun-toting, rip-roaring western picture we used to know, "The Gay Caballero," new production from the studios of Fox, opened yesterday at Walker's State theater. In an intriguing romance that is as full of split-second action as any film seen in a long time, this picture reveals a west that is still wild, even though it is dressed with a cosmopolitanism, high-powered motor cars and a social circle.

"The Gay Caballero" has a cast that will delight the heart of any fan. George O'Brien, Victor McLaglen, Conchita Montenegro, Linda Watkins and C. Henry Gordon are the principal players, each of them in a powerful role.

Alfred Welker directed the film from a screen adaptation of Tom Gill's novel, "The Gay Bandit of the Border."

Studio officials of radio have just completed plans for a limerick contest to be conducted under sponsorship of the Jester Beverage company, of Santa Ana. Rules of the contest will be announced tonight at 6:45 in the opening program of a group to be presented by the beverage company.

These programs will be broadcast every Monday and Wednesday night and will offer 15 minutes of amusement for listeners in addition to the prizes to be awarded.

Because the limericks are to be about the new beverage "Klick" being introduced by the Jester company this popular beverage will receive a bottle of "Klick" and a full case of 24 bottles of this beverage will be awarded to the person who sends in the cleverest limerick of the week.

The only requirement is that limericks must be about "Klick" and have the same number of lines in each verse as in the examples to be given in the announcement program tonight over KREG.

Everyone sending in a limerick will be invited to the studio for the next "Klick" program to be presented Wednesday, August 24. At that time they will receive their bottles of the beverage. The grand prize, also will be awarded at that time. Those who send in limericks and the winners of the grand prize will always receive their rewards during the program following the time limericks were received.

Anyone may enter the contest except employees of KREG and their families. Winners of the weekly grand prize may receive their award in the studio or call at the beverage company, 807 West First street or the case will be delivered to the home free of charge.

Evangelistic Services Come To Close In Fullerton

BROWN PLANS S. A. SERVICES IN SEPTEMBER

FULLERTON, Aug. 22.—The question, "What shall I do with this Jesus?" asked by Pilate previous to the crucifixion, is a question that is put to every man, woman and child since the great event, and is answered in four ways, Evangelist John Brown told his audience last night at the closing meeting of the evangelistic campaign at Fullerton, sponsored by the Orange County Laymen's association.

There are four classes of answers to that question, he said. All are classed as one except that gives all to Him, according to the evangelist.

The other three classes are those who cry "Do away with Him;" those who do nothing about Him and those who procrastinate, according to the Rev. Mr. Brown, and he declared further that "no age perhaps has been so cursed with the neutrals, all of whom are counted with the first group.

At the altar call, many responded and went to the inquiry room.

In response to inquiries as to his continuing in the evangelistic field, the Rev. Mr. Brown said he has not planned to discontinue, but wants all who participate in the meetings to be loyal to his own church in offerings as well as to support the evangelistic meetings.

He plans to take his party to the Church of the Open Door, Los Angeles, for a campaign starting next week. He will open a series of meetings in Santa Ana in September.

PASTOR SAYS HOME CENTER CIVILIZATION

FULLERTON, Aug. 22.—"Some day we will realize that the heart of the nation is the mother heart and that the home is the center of civilization" Evangelist John Brown told a large crowd at the tabernacle meeting Friday night, speaking on "When Women Become Men, Then What?"

He said he has been misquoted and misunderstood in his statements on this theme and that his statement that "We can have a great nation without women law makers, women in business, women doctors, women teachers and women preachers" has always been followed by, "but we cannot have a great nation without motherhood and great woman home makers." He stated, further, that more often than not, however, in considering sources of criticism on the theme, he had found they came from women who repudiate motherhood. He took his text from II Kings 4:8-23, concerning the great woman of Shunem, un-named, but famous as a home-maker, and the originator of the prophet's chamber in the home.

Evangelist Brown made a plea for the return to home life, and to the principles of the old home as a saving of the nation from disaster, and declared that because women have gotten away from home-making as an ideal, the place most honored for women, the place of wife, home-maker and motherhood, is being deserted.

Tonight he will repeat, on request, the sermon of yesterday afternoon, "Thinking White."

The Rev. R. C. Rogers, pastor of the Placentia Church of the Nazarene, sang a group of solo preceding the sermon. He is known over KREG as the "Singing Preacher."

Signs and posters pertinently stating the views of the dry and also depicting the results of a wet nation are on display at all times.

Through the establishment of this publicity room a means has been provided for a prayer band, which meets in the room regularly, also room has been provided for a branch of the Church of Christ, which conducts its regular meetings in the room.

The departmental work, which was emphasized in this report included the evangelistic work of Mrs. Sheridan Phillips, who has conducted short services at each meeting and also brought in as speakers pastors of local churches.

COMMON SENSE NOT SOLELY STOCK OF DEMOCRATS

We are rather amazed at the hostile criticism that the professional politicians are raising against the seven-point program proposed by Governor Roosevelt in his Columbus speech.

There is scarcely one of them which has not been emphasized time and again by various newspapers and writers throughout the country. As we looked over them, we find out of the seven, that certainly four of them have been emphasized, and treated more or less exhaustively, in the columns of The Register. We approve of every one of them.

But what we do claim is that they are not particularly Democratic doctrine. They can only be made so by the hostile treatment of the foolish Republican politicians. That is one of the strange things of politics. A man whom the politician doesn't like, will come out and give the plain, simple, unvarnished truth, and because the politician doesn't like the man, or doesn't want the man to succeed, the politician comes out with ridicule and opposition. He hurts his own cause by so doing.

We deny that that is Democratic doctrine, and while in some cases it is a criticism of things as they have been permitted, it might have happened in any administration. And certainly even if all those seven points were carried out, they would not bring about prosperity, though they might protect some people in their losses.

His first suggestion is for full publicity on the issuance of all securities,—this should be done both in state and national affairs. There is certainly an obligation resting upon organized society to protect people in their buying of stock from any kind of a corporation, which is doing business under the protection of the state, and supposedly in harmony with the "blue sky" laws of the various states.

So we could take up each point in turn. Governor Roosevelt, we are for them. But we were for them before you ever spoke at Columbus, and we believe, in the light of present conditions, a Republican administration would be for them.

As we progress and difficulties are exposed, the remedies for meeting those difficulties become apparent. Governor Roosevelt has pointed out the perfectly obvious. But it has been patent to Republicans as well as to Democrats, and the foolishness is that our Republican alleged "leaders" seem to think it is necessary to oppose these things, rather than to point out that everybody favors them.

The statement of these things shows on their face that everybody has or should favor them. Note—

1. Full publicity on the issuance of all securities, foreign and domestic, to include a statement on the profits expected, and the purposes for which the money is to be put.

2. Federal regulation of holding companies which sell securities in interstate commerce.

3. Federal regulation of all markets engaged in the buying and selling of securities or commodities.

4. Stricter supervision of national banks to protect the depositors against loss.

5. Legislation to prevent the unrestrained use of bank deposits in speculation.

6. Separation of investment banking and commercial banking.

7. The restriction of Federal reserve banks to prevent the use of their funds in market speculation.

We wonder if the joke isn't on the opponents. Maybe Roosevelt made a bet they would oppose these simple things. It is as though someone had come out and declared himself for one of the Ten Commandments, and he received opposition.

We are reminded of an incident concerning a Republican governor years ago in Ohio, whose Thanksgiving proclamation consisted of quotations from the Psalms. He did not mention the fact that they were from the Psalms, supposing everybody would recognize them.

But a Democratic paper came out on the following day and charged plagiarism, declaring the Governor had used language from sources which the Democratic editor did not remember, but he knew he had read it somewhere. This was only excelled by a Republican paper which came out on the following day, charging the Democratic paper with untruthfulness, and challenging the Democrat to find any publication, anywhere, at any point of the world's history, that ever had used that language or anything like it. Blind and extreme partisanship leads to foolish assertions.

CITY ATTORNEY REPLIES TO SENATOR

We have just read the letter which is addressed to the State Senator from this district by his opponent, the City Attorney of Santa Ana. We were rather amazed at the reference which the Senator made to his opponent, rather indicating, as this letter suggests, that his opponent was without record of worth, and was simply using the language and thoughts of others.

We have known the record of many men who were officials, and who were candidates for public office. We have known few to have had a finer and a more outstanding record for real worth, altruism, the public good, and unselfishness than the City Attorney of Santa Ana,—a man of conscience, a man of ideals, a man whose sympathy is with the common people, a man of discernment, and a man of honor.

The Register feels that its highest office can be fulfilled in so clearly giving the news and supporting independence and truth, as to make it possible for men standing for these things, to be able to enter and to continue in public service.

The confidence which comes from political organization, that causes officials to feel so secure in their position that they can slightly sneer at men of such record and achievement, emphasizes the necessity for independent voting, and the determination by the citizens to use discrimination and wisdom, as well as the interest of the common man, in their voting on Primary Day.

A Chicago woman who shot her husband says that she will miss him. But she didn't at the right time.

STRIKING FARMERS

It is rather interesting to watch the stories of the farmers' strike in Iowa. Frequently the farmers are against labor unions and their methods. How they condemn them, when the labor unions resort to force, violence through picketing, etc., etc.

But these labor union leaders may well go to Iowa and learn how the farmers do it, when they go on a strike, and get after the "scabs." When men get really angry, and resort to force, to keep others from breaking the market, they all act alike. Big interests have a better way of doing it, than this cruel and barbaric method that was done in the infancy of the race. The real finesse is through legislation. But it is too late now. The farmers are in a hurry.

The manufacturers have a fair, gentlemanly working agreement, and when they go on a strike, they borrow money on their inventory, and withhold their product from the market. The "strike" is very effective. It raises the prices and keeps them up.

The laborer and the farmer, unable to borrow money on their inventory—the one because labor for loaning purposes is not a commodity, and the farmer's product is too low and fluctuating to borrow even the cost of production, are handicapped, and so they resort to force. A strike is a war, however conducted, and a war is against the interest of men and women in the long run.

Some better way will have to be found. Undoubtedly the farmers know it as well as the others. But they haven't time to hunt for that way just now. We are afraid that it will not help them very much, and certainly not permanently.

JAPAN CONTINUES WARFARE

Japan is continuing its warfare against China. Now comes the news that she has penetrated the province of Jehol in North China with armored trains and tanks, and has captured the city of Nanling. While the Japanese have done this under the pretext of a desire to rescue an official of the Japanese, whom they claim to have been captured by the Chinese, yet any pretext is sufficient for the Japanese to carry on their encroachment into the territory of China.

Railroad terminals make Jehol a strategic point for Japan, and her desire is her prime necessity. It was hoped that the attitude that had been taken by the League of Nations would insure tranquility. The Japanese seem to have as much regard for the League as the Western Progressive Senators have for Senator Moses!

Oversleep is as harmful as overwork, a lecturer on health tells us. But he might have added, deaths from either have been very rare of late.

The Tragic Niobe Disaster

Pomona Progress-Bulletin

The tragic accident in which the German training ship Niobe capsized and carried some 60 naval cadets to their death calls attention to the fact that the German navy, like several others, sticks to the belief of the old-time sea dogs—the belief that the sailing ship is the only good training ship for sea-faring men.

Most navies, including those of the United States and England, are wholly converted to modern ways. An officer can spend his life in either of these great navies and know nothing whatever about sailing ships. But the Germans hold that the man who is trained in a square-rigger gets a grounding in seamanship that he can get in no other way; and, as a result, every German naval officer does a tour of duty on some such ship as the Niobe.

The Niobe undoubtedly will sail again. The Germans have too great an admiration for old-fashioned seamanship to let this tragedy cause a change in their policy.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

THE TALKIES AND THE SCHOOLS

As we get further into the campaign against public expenditures—such as expenditures for education—it is borne in upon us that we must take every advantage of every device or process that will enable us to effect inevitable economies without too drastic impairment of our educational efficiency.

Since 1928 I have, from time to time in these articles, suggested that the talking film is potentially important to education as the printing press.

Since it is the quickest teaching medium I know, it promises to be a saver both of time and money.

If the worst came to the worst, in school finance, I can imagine a quite effective school conducted with a mere handful of teachers as the showers and commentaries upon educational talking films made by the supreme teachings geniuses of the world.

That, of course, would be in no sense desirable. Nothing can ever take the place of the inspired and inspiring teacher dealing first hand with the student.

And we have seen enough technological unemployment in industry without deliberately organizing for it in the teaching profession. But it would be equally stupid.

At least the first task of the schools is a task that the talking film can help us to do more effectively and more cheaply.

And this can mean a real emancipation of the teacher for the truly educational task of "guiding the student in the learning process.

LET THEM ALONE

In every baby's schedule there should appear, "And let him alone," after each entry. We are likely to be too much with our children, forgetting that the first need of every soul is to be alone a little in contemplation of the universe as it avers in this very personal world.

The active child of school age needs to be let alone a little. His activity gets him into trouble. Each person he meets attends to him. He is a target for advice, suggestions and commands from all quarters. His face is dirty. He has lost a button. He is wasting precious time. He ought to take care of his finger nails. Why didn't he raise his hat? Where's his homework? Who told him he could have that box? Why doesn't he take dancing lessons instead of chinning the bar all day? Why doesn't he learn to chin himself instead of going to dancing school?

Let him alone. Let them all alone. After a child has gone to school all day, he needs a period of leisure to do with as he will. After a baby has struggled to eat with a spoon he needs a time of rest and peace to restore his spirit and body. After an adolescent has listened to lectures and citations for hours he needs time to himself.

One of the needs of childhood and of maturity as well, is a chance to be alone, to go apart, to visit with itself. Life is seventy years long. Surely some of those years ought to go into the task of knowing oneself, a leisurely, lonely undertaking.

BRITISH STORM ALBERT

On Aug. 22, 1918, British troops stormed Albert, an important town in the Picardy sector, taking more than 2000 prisoners. British forces in two days had advanced more than four miles on a 10-mile front.

French forces, after taking Lassigny, advanced nearly seven miles on a 15-mile front to wipe out a large slice of the territory gained by the Germans in their great offensives earlier in the year.

They took more than 20 villages and reported that German opposition was weakening rapidly.

A British oil tanker reported that it had sunk a German submarine off the New England coast in a running battle.

IN-AND OUT AGAIN

In one of the last engagements of the war an American sergeant ordered a Negro private to go into a dugout and clean out any Germans that happened to be left.

"The soldier hesitated a moment, swallowed his Adam's apple, and then said huskily: 'Eff yo' see three or fo' men come a-runnin' out o' dat hole, don't shoot the fust one!'"—The Humorist.

CHAINED

WIFE: Think of it! Where would you be today if it weren't for me?

HUBBY: As far away as possible.—Ohio Motorist.

"Miss Smith—er—Gladys, tell me—what must I give you to get a kiss from you?"

"Chloroform."—Pele Mele, Paris.
